Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education

Dear Parents and Carer

Following a recent statutory guidance update from the Department of Education, we are currently reviewing our Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education curriculum.

As part of this update, all schools are required to update their RSE policy. By listening and responding to the views of pupils and parents, it helps to ensure that RSHE meets pupils' needs and that topics are taught at the right time to support children to build positive relationships and avoid harms before they occur. With this in mind, we will be communicating with both pupils and parents to gather views on topics taught relating to RSHE.

In the meantime, if you have any questions regarding RSHE, please contact your child's class teacher, myself or Mrs Green, our PSHE and RSHE subject leads.

Yours sincerely

S.Hunter
